

WHERE THE MONEY FROM THE CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE GOES TO

$2,974 Collected Here Last Year at Cost of $58—Was Used to Secure Tuberculosis Nurse, Monthly Chest Clinics, for Office Expenses and Tuberculosis Hospital Shades.

On Friday, December 1, the annual sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals began in the city and county. The Federation of Women's Clubs taking charge of the sale in the city, and before this many homes doubtless have been visited by the women selling the seals.

It is quite a while since the last sale and many of The Freeman readers may have forgotten the outcome of last year's sale and also may not realize what is done in Ulster county with the proceeds of the sale. The following facts may therefore be enlightening.

At a meeting of the Ulster County Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis, held at the office of the secretary, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, last February 16, Dr. A. C. Gates, agent for the seal sale in Ulster county, reported as follows: Sale of seals in Kingston city, $1,642.93; sale of seals in county outside of city, $1,331.92; total sale, $2,974.85. Disbursements—25 per cent of gross receipts paid to state tuberculosis committee, $743.71; local expenses of entire sale, $58.19; total disbursements, $801.90. Net receipts of 1921 sale, $2,172.95.

This sum has been expended locally as follows: A special registered tuberculosis nurse has been supplied for tuberculosis work in both the city and county outside city, and that nurse goes to the farthest corners of the county, where tuberculosis cases have been found. It further supplies her with the necessary automobile and its upkeep. All expenses have been paid for monthly chest clinics, held half in the city, half in the county outside the city, with Dr. Stanley Wang of New York city (himself a tuberculosis cure) as the expert examiner, and the tuberculosis nurse assisting. The total expense of these clinics is between $40 and $60 a month, but through the month of July and August no clinics are held.

An office of the Ulster County Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis is maintained in the county building, 74 John street, and while the rent is donated by the county, telephone charges, cleaning, etc., are paid out of the Christmas Seal fund. Furthermore, new shades for the entire Tuberculosis Hospital were paid for by the tuberculosis committee and necessary clothing and occasional relief for tuberculosis patients found in real need has been furnished. It will therefore be obvious that the proceeds of last year's Christmas Seal sale have been most economically stretched to cover all this expenditure for the past year, and the need of a larger fund this year will be equally obvious.

This year only 17 per cent of the gross receipts will go to the state tuberculosis committee to carry on the larger and necessary work of the state and national organization, while the remaining 83 per cent will be left to further carry on tuberculosis work in Ulster county.

JOHN M. CASHIN IS MAKING GOOD

Tried an Important Case Before Judge Mack in Federal District Court in New York and is Commended for Manner of Presentation of Facts.

The New York Times says: A jury before Judge Julian W. Mack in the Federal district court Wednesday returned a verdict of guilty against Harry E. Meade and William F. Walsh, prohibition agents, and five others, who had been on trial for more than a week, on an indictment charging violation of the prohibition laws and a conspiracy to evade the internal revenue laws. The men will be sentenced next Tuesday.

The men were found guilty of having engaged in a plot in the course of which 160 barrels containing 800 dozen bottles of ginger ale were substituted in place of 160 bottles of Canadian whiskey which had been entered at the custom house as being from Canada to Havana.

When the whiskey reached New York by train from Canada Agents Meade and Walsh were assigned to make sure that the liquor reached the Ward line pier. A customs inspector testified that ginger ale instead of whiskey was delivered at the pier. The substitution was noticed when the barrels broken open on slipping from a truck.

After charging the jury, Judge Mack turned to Assistant United States Attorney John M. Cashin of Kingston and said:

"Now that the jury has retired, and before it returns with its verdict, I want to say to you, Mr. Cashin, and to those associated with you that in my museum, and one-half years' experience I have never had a criminal case, either in the state or in the Federal courts, more carefully prepared or more clearly and ably presented than in this case, and seldom, if ever, in a civil case."

FRENCH SPLIT ON RATIFICATION

By Telegram to The Freeman. Paris, Dec. 2.—M. Mandel, chairman of the Chamber of Deputies sub-committee charged with examining the Washington conference treaty for limitation of naval armaments, resigned today after a series of bitter verbal passages with former Premier Aristide Briand.

M. Briand is working for the ratification of the treaties which he, as head of the French delegation in Washington, helped to draw up.

M. Mandel, who was chief of the former Clemenceau cabinet, is leading the opposition against ratification.

Following his resignation, M. Mandel sent a cablegram to M. Clemenceau in the United States, asking for instructions and suggestions as to how he should proceed.

"I shall be unable to comment in the press for several days," said M. Mandel to International News Service. "In the meantime I hope to hear from M. Clemenceau."

France and Italy are the only interested nations that have not yet ratified the Washington conference treaty.

VERDICT AGAINST 'PHONE COMPANY

Attorney Awarded $1,000 for Poor Service for Six Years—Company Will Fight to Last Ditch.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 2.—George S. Grimes, prominent attorney, is elated today over a verdict of $1,000 damages given him by a jury in what he claims is the only case of the kind on record in the country, whereby a telephone company has been found guilty of giving a subscriber poor service and been ordered to pay the subscriber for "loss of time and for annoyance."

"For the past six years I have been hearing the same old words, such as 'The line is busy.' 'They don't answer.' 'Sorry, but the party hung up,' and other phrases repeated to cover up poor service and inexcusable delay," Grimes said.

Grimes sued the telephone company for $3,000 for alleged damages over a period of six years.

The company announced today that the case would be "carried to the highest court in the land," as to let the verdict stand would "open the doors to endless litigation over minor and unavoidable lapses in service that no telephone company or management could always avoid."

CHILD CALLS ATTENTION TO MISREPRESENTATIONS

By Telegram to The Freeman. Lausanne, Dec. 2.—Richard Washburn Child, spokesman for the American delegation of observers in the Near East peace conference, denied this afternoon that the Americans had suggested a postponement or adjournment of the parity. IRREGULARS TO CEASE WARFARE

Letter From De Valera, Hiding in Ireland, Promises That Use of Arms Shall Cease.

Manchester, England, Dec. 2.—A letter published in the Manchester Guardian today, over the signature of Eamonn de Valera, stated that the Republican irregulars would no longer oppose the Irish Free State "with force of arms."

The letter denied that the Irish electorate ever decided in favor of the Free State and claimed that the Irish electors really favor a republic. He said that the Irish Republicans will not oppose the Free State with arms, adding:

"Any decision through a plebiscite taken after the English withdrawal their threat of war—that is the test whether there is English dictation or whether the Irish people are really free."

This letter indicates that De Valera is still in Ireland and is hiding in or near Dublin. It is dated "Dublin, December 1."

RUNS INTO A PARKED CAR ON STATE ROAD IN BALMVILLE

When it was impossible to avoid an accident on the Balmville Road Friday morning, Fred Van Deusen, of 131 Pine street, Kingston, ran into a car parked on the side of the road, instead of running head-on into a car going in the opposite direction. Mr. Van Deusen was driving north on the road. Near the residence of Ralph Tompkins was a car owned by Robert Shely of Cornwall. He was changing a tire. As Mr. Van Deusen was about to pass the Shely car, he noticed another auto coming south. Putting on his brakes he turned into the car on the side of the road. Mr. Shely was knocked over. He was taken to the hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a compound fracture of the right leg. Dr. Townsend is in charge of the case. —Newburgh News.

TWO ARE GIVEN PRISON SENTENCES

Orville Purdy Six Months and Hoovecamp Year Minimum—Barrage's Postponed and Charles Pleads Not Guilty.

An adjourned term of county court was held at the court house Friday afternoon when Judge Fowler disposed of a number of cases. In the case of The People vs. Orville Purdy, who pleaded guilty to unlawful entry, a six months jail sentence was given. Purdy with several others was involved in the taking of a quantity of furniture from a summer bungalow in the town of Woodstock. Sentence was suspended on the others but on account of Purdy having been convicted before of burglary in the third degree he was given a jail sentence. Andrew J. Cook appeared for defendant.

In the case of The People vs. Alfred Burrice sentenced was postponed until next term of court.

Edward Daniel Hoovecamp, indicted by the grand jury for bigamy, received a sentence of from one year to one year and six months in the Clinton State Prison at Dannemora. Hoovecamp pleaded guilty to the charge. He was born in Wayne county, Pennsylvania but has been residing at Middletown. He was living near Ellenville at the time he acquired a second wife. In answer to the usual questions he said he was temperate in his habits and never drank. He was 37 years old and was single.

An indictment was found some time ago against Dominico Demico for an alleged violation of the liquor law, it being claimed that he had liquors in his possession. District Attorney Traver asked that the indictment be dismissed as he was sure there could not be a legal conviction in the case. Defendant was employed on the Rose brickyard and it was alleged that he was transporting liquor. An investigation was made on complaint of Irving Rose. While the investigating party were busy in the neighborhood Demico came up the road with one of the Rose wagons and at the suggestion of Mr. Rose an examination was made of the cargo. The searchers had no warrant to search the wagon and therefore the procedure was not legal under recent decisions. Alcohol was found in the containers on the wagon. However, since the finding of the indictment Mr. Rose has asked that the indictment be dismissed and upon motion of District Attorney Traver the indictment was dismissed by Judge Fowler.

Joseph Charles, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of driving an automobile in the city of Kingston on July 24, 1922, while intoxicated, was arraigned. He entered a plea of not guilty through his attorney Chris J. Flanagan.

District Attorney Traver asked that an order be entered staying the transfer of prisoners now in the county jail and who have been sentenced to serve in other institutions. Their presence would be required before the next grand jury which will convene Monday. The sheriff was ordered to stay the transfer.

Court then adjourned sine die.

LOCAL MEN PAY $500 FOR 30 GAL. OF WATER

"The Finest Whiskey" Was Only in The Sample.

A story that has all the earmarks of being true is being passed along by members of the "Knows," that two well-known men in the central section of this city on Wednesday purchased 30 gallons of what was supposed to be "the finest whiskey," but which turned out later to be water. The liquid was tested after a glass "thief" was lowered in the container through the open bung hole, and the liquor withdrawn and then tasted by the purchasers. Twenty dollars a gallon was paid according to the story told, also that the "finest whiskey" was in the glass "thief" that was corked so that no water would get into it when lowered into the water.

PRINCE ANDREW GOES ON TRIAL

Former Greek King's Brother Testifies in Own Behalf—Greek Army in Thrace Insubordinate.

Athens, Dec. 2.—Ignoring the protests of Britain and Italy, the Greek revolutionary committee today arraigned Prince Andrew, brother of former King Constantine, before a military tribunal, charging him with disobedience while commanding an army corps in the Turco-Greek war in Asia Minor.

(Note: A censorship on Friday prevented transmission of press messages out of Athens on Thursday.) There was apparently a relaxation on the part of the Greek revolutionary officials today as dispatches were received without interruption, telling of the arraignment of Prince Andrew.

General Vlachopoulos is chairman of the extraordinary war council that is trying Prince Andrew. The hearing is taking place in the Chamber of Deputies.

Troops are on guard outside, but the city is quiet.

Andrew was allowed to testify in his own behalf. He defends all his actions on the military field and declares that Greece was always first in his heart and mind.

London, Dec. 2.—Prince Andrew was arraigned before the revolutionary tribunal today, according to a dispatch from Athens.

The dispatch gave no explanation as to why the revolutionary masters of Greece had arraigned the prince two days before the date set in the official communique issued at Athens on Thursday night. This action, however, is regarded as another move by the members of the Greek revolutionary committee to show their contempt for outside protests against the trial and executions of former state and military officials.

Vigorous efforts had been made to prevent the trial of Prince Andrew. Both Great Britain and Italy had sent notes to Athens and King George expressed the wish at Athens to abdicate when he learned that the revolutionary committee was determined to go ahead with the trial.

The British royal family as well as members of the Hellenic royal family scattered through continental Europe, are anxious over the fate of Andrew. His wife is a sister of Lord Mountbatten, who is related to the royal family of England. It is understood that Andrew's defense is that the Greek military catastrophe in the Turkish war would have been greater if he had not disobeyed orders sent to him from Athens.

Eleutherios Venizelos, former Greek premier and head of the Greek delegation in the Near East peace conference, is expected to return to Athens from Lausanne next week. He will not attempt to enter the Greek ministry, but, according to reports, will strike to have a new cabinet constructed which will be favorable to his policies. Venizelos would like to have either M. Politis or M. Michalakopoulos succeed Colonel Gonatas as prime minister.

The revolutionary situation in Greece is causing alarm in the Greek capital. General Nider has resigned as commander of the Greek army in Thrace because he is unable to maintain discipline among the troops.

A fresh burden has been imposed upon the Greek government by the agreement at Lausanne to exchange the Greek and Turkish civilian populations as a result of the realignment of the Turkish frontiers.

Under the agreement all the Turks living in territory under Greek sovereignty will leave for Turkey while more than 1,000,000 Greeks living on Turkish soil will return to Greece.

Greek government officials, were quoted as saying that they could not possibly care for the influx of Greek refugees. The treasury is exhausted and the nation is on the verge of famine.

Ten merchant ships, conveyed by U. S. destroyers, have just departed from Athens for Samsoun on the Turkish Black Sea coast to evacuate the Christian refugees collected there by the American Near East Relief Administration.

BRIDGES ON IMPROVED ROADS

Few Structures Less Than 18 Feet Are Now Being Constructed, Say Engineers.

Few highway bridges with a width of roadway less than 18 feet are now being constructed on improved roads, according to engineers of the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. In the past some 12 feet and a good many of 16-foot width have been constructed in an effort to economize, but it has proved shortsighted economy. Only one line of traffic can pass over a 12-foot roadway, and 16 feet of width will not accommodate two lines in safety. Many of the states, such as Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio and Massachusetts, have found it advisable in replacing old bridges on important roads to make them wide enough to accommodate three and four lines of traffic.

Material for Good Roads.

Federal aid roads, either completed or under construction in the United States at the end of the present fiscal year, will require approximately 50,000,000 tons of stone and gravel for the making of 28,000 miles of highway.

Dam Not Built by Experts.

The failure of the dam which caused the famous Johnstown flood, May 31, 1889, was due to defects of construction, explained by the fact that no engineer was employed in designing or building the dam.

Mosquitoes Prevent Rice Production. Although rice is the staple diet of the population of Ceylon, it is nearly all imported. Malaria mosquitoes breed so freely in the rice fields that laborers cannot work there.

The Day Is Never So Dark. The day is never so dark, nor the night even, but that the laws at least foot roadway, and 16 feet of width will not accommodate two lines in safety. Many of the states, such as Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio and Massachusetts, have found it advisable in replacing old bridges on important roads to make them wide enough to accommodate three and four lines of traffic.

Sea's Depths Always Cold. It is always cold at the bottom of the sea, even under the equator. At great depths the temperature is near the freezing point.

The Ready Answer.

A schoolboy answering the question, "What was the Sherman act?" re-states at the end of the present fiscal year, will require approximately 50,000,000 tons of stone and gravel for the making of 28,000 miles of highway.

That if the car stops dead in the road the first thing to do—after looking to see if there is a sufficient quantity of gas, oil and water—is to crank the engine, taking care that the gears are in neutral. If the engine turns over hard, this indicates trouble with either the lubricating or cooling system. If it turns over fairly easily, it is not necessary to search for troubles along either of these lines.

The next point to be taken into consideration is that of compression. This can be determined by opening the petcocks on all the cylinders, save one and turning the crank two revolutions, noting if there is a resistance during one-fourth of the revolution in the two complete turns. Each cylinder should be tested in this manner and, if one is very weak, the trouble will generally be found in the exhaust valve, or in the inlet valve. The vacuum system leading from the gasoline tank should next come under suspicion and finally the ignition system and the spark plugs should be examined, remembering that, after all, the trouble may lie in such a "trifle" as a loose or wet wire or a speck of dirt in the carburetor. JACK IS USEFUL IN LIFTING CAR Device Illustrated Can Be Constructed to Elevate Auto Three Feet or Higher.

QUITE EASILY CONSTRUCTED

Is Comparatively Light and Makes Serviceable Addition to Shop or Service Car—No Special Machines Work Needed.

The usual car-jack lifts only to a height of about ten inches, making it necessary to use an overhead hoist for lifting in excess of this.

The jack shown in the attached sketch can be constructed to lift three feet or even more.

For road-repair work or in the shop-yard this jack is especially useful and by means of it the front or rear end of a car can be elevated three feet or more.

An Easily Constructed Jack That Will Be of Great Service to the Automobileist.

more and the wheels set on trestles or high supports while repairs are made underneath.

The construction of this special jack does not require any special machine work, and steel plate is used for the two main parts.

The base is made broad, 2 feet by 2 feet, of plate 1/2 inch thick, which permits its use on soft earth without tipping over.

The side members are of 1/2-inch plate, 8 inches wide, 7 feet long, or more if required, doubled over at the top and riveted to the base at the bottom. Two rows of drilled holes are made through these side plates about 4 inches apart, with the positions of the holes in the opposite rows staggered.

A lifting-bar 6 feet long of 1/2-inch plate, tapered to a handle at one end, 3 inches wide at the opposite end, which is turned up and cut on the lower edge to engage the pins as shown, is used similarly to a jack handle. In operation, two 1/2-inch diameter pins, of the same size as the drilled holes through the uprights, are alternately placed under the bar.

The pin in the rear hole is placed first, the bar pried down until the forward pin can be inserted. The bar is tilted back and the pin inserted in the next hole above in the uprights.

This is continued until the car is elevated as far as required and the bar is locked by placing the pin in a rear hole above the bar.

This jack is comparatively light and makes a serviceable addition to the shop or service car.—G. A. Luers in Popular Science Monthly.

ALIGNMENT OF WHEELS

The average motorist and garage man knows that the front wheels of a car have a certain necessary alignment. They must be drawn in below to provide ease in steering and must too, in front to allow for spreading under traction.

Front wheels on new cars are toed in the full amount, but, being stiff, they do not easily spread. Consequently, the tires temporarily run out of alignment. Under such conditions, say the experts, the treads of the front tires wear off rapidly.

You Auto Know

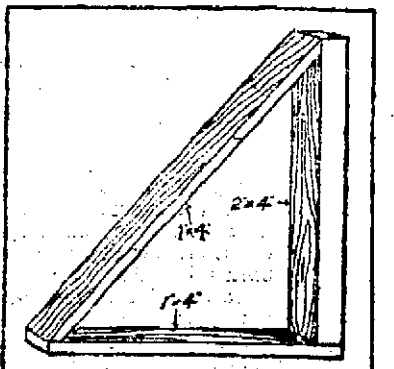

That the "smoke" which issues from the exhaust pipe when the engine is started, during cold weather is not really smoke at all, but steam—analogue to that which comes from one's mouth when the air is chilly or laden with moisture. Incidentally, the reason for this is precisely the same as in the case of the human body.

The combustion which takes place in the engine gives rise to a certain amount of water vapor which, at ordinary temperatures, passes off without condensing. In cold weather, however, this water-vapor condenses into steam the moment it strikes the air, and the car will therefore give the impression of "smoking" badly for a minute or two or at least until it gets under way and the movement of the wind has an opportunity to disperse the cloud. The color of the exhaust will, however, definitely show to what cause the smoke is due. If it is white, it is nothing more than steam; if it is light blue, it is because too much oil is being used, and if it is black it is gasoline smoke. Two by Four and Inch Boards Put Together as Illustrated Will Relieve Tires.

When the automobile is placed in the garage in the winter it is always advisable to raise the car from the floor to take the weight off the tires. A simple and easy way is to make four supports out of two-by-fours and inch boards, as shown in the illustration, and set them under the axles as close to the wheels as possible. The old-fashioned, home-made wagon jack is

WHY MOTORS WILL NOT STOP

Cause of Engine Continuing to Run After Ignition Is Shut Off Is Due to Several Faults.

The usual cause of an engine continuing to run after the ignition is switched off is overheating, due to faulty cooling system, lack of water, oil, poorly circulating oil or oil that is congealed, tight bearings or fan not in operation. Overheating may be carried on to a point where the engine will cease to operate, its bearings and pistons seizing tightly so the engine cannot revolve.

COOL ENGINE IS IMPORTANT

In Hot Weather Flush Out Water System at Frequent Intervals—Fill With Clean Water.

To keep the engine properly cooled during the warm summer months, flush out the water system at frequent intervals and fill with clean water. In connection with efficient operation, adjustment should be made to the fan belt. The position of the spark lever should be watched to see that it is kept in an advanced position, thus assuring better cooling of the motor.

News of Interest to Members of Fraternal Societies.

Emmett Sir William D. Cushman, Grand Sword Bearer, will pay an official visit to Rondout Commandery, K. T., at its rooms, 280 Wall street, Wednesday evening, December 13. The order of the Temple will be conferred. Dinner will be furnished by the ladies of the Amaranth at 6 o'clock.

Monday night will be Past Masters' Night at Rondout Lodge No. 343, F. & A. M., at which time all of the chairs will be filled with past masters. The evening will also be marked by the conferring of the sublime degree of Master Mason on a class of candidates. At the close of the lodge a social time will be enjoyed and refreshments will be served.

For the first time in several years Kingston Chapter No. 155, O. E. S., conferred the floral degrees on two candidates Friday evening at the rooms in the Masonic building, Broadway and Strand.

The event brought out a large attendance of Eastern Stars and Masons from all sections of the county and over three hundred were present to witness the impressive work of the degree team of the Chapter. The rooms had been artistically decorated for the occasion. Among the distinguished visitors was Master Palmer, past district deputy grand master of the Greene Ulster Masonic District. During the evening Miss Grace V. Merritt of Clinton Chapter, and associate grant conductress of the grand chapter of the state of New York, was introduced and presented with an appropriate gift from Kingston Chapter. In addition to the degree work, which was flawless, a short program was rendered. Master Joseph Block recited and the Huestle sisters entertained with dances. So- prano solos were rendered delightfully by Mrs. Leon Foster. After the close of the Chapter a social time was enjoyed and refreshments served. The event Friday evening was one of the most successful held by the Chapter this year. The annual meeting will be held Friday evening, December 15, and will be the last meeting of the Chapter this year.

A box of cigars was donated by H. J. Hoffman, which was on sale and brought $3. A large cake was donated by the Advance. Bakery and brought $13.75. Rolls for the frankfurters were donated by the New York Bakery, which brought in quite a sum. The auxiliary wishes to thank all that helped make this affair successful.

"Some men," said Uncle Eben, "leave footprints in the sands of time, and others merely scatter their tracks around neighborly chicken coops."

HOLY CROSS FAVORITE OVER BOSTON COLLEGE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Dec. 2.—The final chapter of New England's 1922 college football history was written here today when Boston College and Holy Cross met at Braves Field for the Catholic college championship of the east. With the overwhelming 41 to 0 defeat of last year still in their minds, the Boston College team enters the game today with a determination to offset last year's showing. The Holy Cross eleven with a brilliant record this season, their only loss being to Harvard, was a slight favorite to win. Both teams are in excellent physical condition.

First Assembly Dance.

On Friday evening, December 1, the society season of 1922-23 was formally opened with the first assembly dance held in the Grand Hall. It was a thoroughly delightful affair in every way. The costumes worn by the ladies were exceedingly beautiful in color tints and fabrics and it was very evident that the new lines of draperies now in vogue are artistic and becoming. The music was such as delights the dancer of today and the palm screened orchestra and daintily set tea table where the light refreshments were served all added to the charm of the picture.

HOUSE PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO MANN

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Dec. 2.—In the house of representatives where he lived and labored usefully for a full quarter of a century, a notable group of friends gathered today and paid tribute to the memory of James R. Mann, of Illinois, a Republican stalwart since the days of McKinley.

President Harding headed the notable figures in public life who gathered there to express their sorrow at his passing and their respect for the works he accomplished. Cabinet members, justices of the supreme court, and hundreds from both senate and house made up the rest of the distinguished assemblage.

It is seldom that a departed member is accorded the honor of an "official" funeral such as was held today for Representative Mann. The last was that of the late Champ Clark, Democrat of Missouri, and oddly enough, it was Representative Mann who that day delivered the chief eulogy of the Missourian, who was his political opponent and warm personal friend.

Late today the body of Representative Mann will be taken aboard a train for Chicago, where the final services will be held on Monday.

Irregulars Attack Warship.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dublin, Dec. 2.—Irish Republican irregulars today attacked a British destroyer which was around near Kenmare at the junction of the Kenmare river and the Atlantic Ocean, on the southwestern tip of Ireland. Later advice said that the irregulars were beaten off.

EVOLUTION OF LADY'S CAPE

Popular Garment is Embroidered and Fur-Trimmed; Bandings of Contrasting Material.

The French designers are still making capes—a great many of them, in fact. They are embroidered and fur-trimmed. They are lined in lavish ways. They are trimmed with bandings of contrasting material. In fact, they are no longer the simple strips of material that they once were.

But this Parisian sanction of the cape idea decides the fact that wraps of this sort will be worn by those who like them through the winter. A cape from one of the recent openings has Chinese embroidery all over its surface and is then supplied with a wide collar of fur. Another one has applied motifs of chenille making up a design running over its entire surface. Still another one holds its lining as its piece de resistance, for that is a bright yellow against a purple velvet surface. Others of them are lined with furs or marabou, and each one is a distinct law unto itself in the matter of design, although its lines conform so strictly to the laws laid down by a general fashion tendency.

String Bean.

"String bean" trimming doesn't sound intriguing, but it is being used extensively on coats and wraps of silk. It consists of little ornaments which look very much like the humble vegetable after which they are named. They are arranged in a row about the neck.

"Ye're Nae Smith."

The late Sir James T. Nesmyth of Posso, Peeblesshire, has just been succeeded in the title by his nephew, Mr. Douglas Nesmyth. An interesting story is told of how this very old family got its name. In the reign of James III of Scotland an ancestor, pursued by the Douglas partisans, sought refuge in a smithy, disguised as a hammerman. The Douglas followers suspected the man, who in his agitation struck a false blow, when one of the Douglas men rushed at him calling out, "Ye're nae smith."

Made "Wise" Man Look Foolish.

A bold and self-assertive individual bounded into a shaving saloon and, catching sight of an owl in a corner of the room exclaimed, with scorn, "Who stuffed that owl?" Then the critic proceeded to smile hip and thigh the taxidermist who had stuffed the owl; the owl was wrong here, there and everywhere. During the whole of this outburst the barber kept on shaving. At the end, when the stranger was out of breath with his vehement criticism, the owl stepped from the perch and planted itself somewhere else.

Origin of "Doughboy."

The word "doughboy" is a slang military term applied to an infantryman in the United States army. The word dates from the Civil war when army wit was aroused by the large globular brass buttons on infantry uniforms. Someone—his name has been a sailor—dubbed the buttons "doughboys" because they reminded him of the boiled dumplings of raised dough that are so frequently served in ships' messes and are known to all sailors as "doughboys."

Parking the Cows.

John Marks was attending the state fair for the first time. When he became tired his father took him into the Coliseum where he might get a seat and rest. Some thoroughbred cattle were being judged and while John Marks and his father sat there the cattle were all lined up side by side with faces to the wall. The child watched the cattle and in a moment said: "Daddy, what for they parking those cows against that fence?"—Indianapolis Star.

"Yes," said Mrs. Plingleigh.

"Yes," said Mrs. Plingleigh, "I always keep my dog tied up. I never can be sure when some tramp might come along and bite him or steal his bone."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Warren, prominent Kansas City lawyer, who, it is said, will marry Miss Nancy Jordan, the recently young English woman, who has been permitted to enter America, with her three-year-old son as the guest of Warren's divorced and wealthy wife. The report comes from Kansas City that Warren may marry the young woman.

Newburgh Minstrel Troupe Which Will Give Performances Here December 18 Had Big Success at Newburgh.

The Southern Star Minstrels of Newburgh, which will give a minstrel performance at the Kingston Opera House on Wednesday evening, December 13, under the auspices of Judea Shrine, U. D., White Shrine of Jerusalem, for the benefit of the worthy poor of this city, is composed of a number of young people of Newburgh, who have gained considerable fame for their entertainment.

Minstrel performances of this character have a history as old as the stage itself and minstrelsy never will grow less popular with the American theater-goer. The variety of entertainment given by the Southern Star Minstrels covers a wide range and the success of the minstrel at Newburgh when first produced this season was so great that it was repeated under the auspices of the Newburgh Masonic Veterans' Association with even better results.

Judea Shrine will devote the proceeds of the minstrel to supplying Christmas cheer and comfort to the poor of the city and a committee of the Shrine will have charge of that work.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TEACHER SEAGULL

"The little seagulls," said Daddy, "went to school in the big river not far from the great harbor which led out to the ocean."

Their teacher was called Professor Sea Gull, and Professor Sea Gull was a very fine teacher. He was also called Prof. Gull for short, and his pupils did not say it in a rude way at all. They called him Prof. Gull because they were fond of him.

"A Very Fine Teacher." Besides, they were Sea Gulls and that was rather the free, natural way they had. "Now children," said Prof. Gull, "I want to tell you some stories about Sea Gulls."

"The children all sat about in their rippling disks on the surface of the water, and said:

"We are ready to hear."

"Good," said Prof. Gull, "then I do not have to call the class to order."

"Some time ago when people were not so wise as they are now they used to destroy us. Yes, there was a place on the coast where we were and fishermen used to kill us because we were supposed to catch the fish that they wanted."

"Our families moved and went to another place. By the time they were there the other place was being overrun by the dead fish, for we clean the shores of dead fish and they make our meals."

"We therefore do a good work for people and do not take away anything that they would want."

"When they found that we had really been doing a fine work instead of such a bad work as they had wrongly accused us of doing, they moved to the place where we were."

"It became a very fashionable place after that."

"In fact I could say that it was still a very fashionable place and it is apt to be a very fashionable place for many years to come."

"The Sea Gulls founded this place. Yes, they were the ones."

"Prof. Gull took a sip of water and then continued:

"In the olden days, too, women allowed their hair to be trimmed with our feathers, but not now. Oh yes, that too has been stopped."

"It is all right to wear ostrich feathers for the birds don't have to be killed—they're not even hurt when their feathers are taken from them. So I like to see ladies wear ostrich feathers, but wearing our feathers has been stopped."

"It is now against the law. A most sensible law."

"The Sea Gull children all nodded their heads."

"People used to steal our dear little speckled eggs which were along the beaches where it was not too public."

"But that too is against the law. These are both most excellent laws."

"Now the dear little Sea Gull children come out from the eggs and learn to swim and fly. How funny and awkward they are at first."

"You were all that way at first. Even your professor was that way at first."

"The Sea Gull children all chuckled and giggled as they thought of Professor Gull learning to fly. He seemed so wise and as though he must have always known everything."

"But they liked him all the better for being so honest and frank."

"It is nice to go out with the big ships and cheer the people along who are on the ships," Prof. Gull continued.

"For sometimes people are lonely when they first go to sea. And if you have time it is nice to rest on a wave and wait for a ship coming back to welcome those who are coming back and to let them see their old Sea Gull friends."

"And they will do their work too. Oh yes, they will do their part for people."

"No longer need we tremble as those Sea Gulls of a number of years ago had to do. No longer need we worry. We can enjoy Mother Ocean and the Wave Daughters and Prince Foam and the Breaker Boys and old Mr. Wind."

"These are some true Sea Gull stories. Another time we will hear more."

"Wait Till I Figure on It. Teacher—George, what would you do if another boy called you a big story-teller?"

George (aged ten)—"To my face?"

Teacher—"Yes."

George—"About how big a boy do you mean?"

FOOD THAT'S DIFFERENT

Just ordinary food served in an extraordinary way is what epicureans call fancy cookery; an art in which the French excel. It takes imagination to serve an egg so daintily, so tastily, so attractively, that it is artistic. Such a dish is Planked Ham With Eggs.—A slice of ham minced and moistened with cream sauce is spread on a fireproof platter with depressions for each egg which is to be placed on it. Drop an egg in each small nest, season, place the dish in a hot oven to set the eggs. Serve corned beef hash in the same manner and garnish with parsley. A plunk may be used, but must be very hot when the meat is placed upon it.

Salad Anna.—Cut half-inch slices lengthwise of head lettuce. On these sections lay alternately segments of orange, grapefruit and tangerines from which all tough skin and membrane has been removed. Serve with French dressing beaten smooth with a spoonful or two of catsup.

Celery With Cheese Sauce.—Cook celery cut in small pieces until tender. Better a baking dish or individual baking dishes, put in a spoonful of celery, some seasoning, then a spoonful of rich white sauce; cover with grated cheese, finish with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven until thoroughly heated through.

French pastry owes its charm to its frivolous appearance, shape, color and decoration. The same ingredients used in the ordinary way would not appeal. We have (the most of us), not passed from the ginger-bread-man stage; we like the taste of food that appeals to the eye, imagination and color sense. The allurement of attractive food draws us to out-of-the-way places, and the most popular places where food is served are those which cater to the magic influence of well-prepared and well-garnished food.

BOYS' CONFERENCE FRIDAY SESSION

Speaker Urges Tolerance and Respect for All Races—Convention Officers Chosen—Supper and Lecture Follow.

The opening session of the Older Boys' Conference Friday afternoon at James' Church was a very inspiring service. The meeting was opened by the singing of several hymns, followed by responsive readings and a few minutes of prayer. The singing was led by Ed Goldthorpe of the Bronx district, and the devotional by W. F. Langdon, also of the Bronx. The Rev. A. C. Thomas, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Baptist Church, delivered the address. In reference to the songs that had just been sung, Mr. Thomas said that they were hymns of praise and thanksgiving, but the real theme of the service was the spirit of mission work, the spreading of Christianity, so that the speaker might be true that "Jesus shall come where'er the sun does his successive journeys run." The spirit of thankfulness can be like that of the Pharisee told of in the eighteenth chapter of Luke, gratitude for not being like someone else, or else it can be a spirit expressing thanks that we are something to give to other people. The American people are guilty of having the spirit of the Pharisee in more than one instance. As the Pharisee took pride and satisfaction in himself for having fasted twice a week and paid his tithes, many people in this country are self-satisfied, because they go to church once a week and contribute to charity. If we are to do any good in this world, we must get ourselves out of that conceit. Men in business fail because they get too much an opinion of themselves. People who would spread the Gospel, often have a dislike to some person for almost no reason at all, or even to nations and races. It has been such feeling that has hindered and is hindering the better mission work today. There is a time in every one's life when he was despised or avoided by someone else, and it hurt him as his angry attitude hurts the one upon whom he now looks down in scorn. By placing one's self in the other person's position, by remembering the time when he was not an all-important personage, that he can begin to have a sympathetic understanding of the other person's life and really be able to benefit his fellow men. The fact that men pray for help when they call for aid of the Mighty One of trouble, they admit their weakness. Foreign missionaries are not so much to approach their people as the haughty way, but to get a sympathetic understanding of the other person's life, to pick out the good points in his life that his religion has fostered, and then to show him that better points there are in Christianity. One of the most effective ways of gaining humility, is to think of ourselves in comparison with Christ, the ideal, to test our virtue by the example set by Him. There are organizations in this land whose basis of organization is the belief that those who qualify for membership therein are superior to those whom the organization plans to crush. Many of the ideas of such organizations are destructive, but most people are too superstitious about them. There are organizations with no such objective in mind, about which people get like opinions. Some think that the only way to lead a good Christian life is to harbor as much fear and skepticism for these of other beliefs as is possible. Those people are entirely mistaken. They are becoming followers of a selfish religion, living all for themselves, believing only in themselves, trusting themselves and no one else. These people need to take to heart the message in Rudyard Kipling's "Recessional." Just as Christ was despised by others because he was a Galilean, so many are today despised by us because they are of a race whom we believe inferior to us. We must overcome this belief, turn our minds to other lands, and enter into a humble sympathy for others.

Following the address, it was announced that the committee in charge had chosen the following officers for the convention: John Young, New York city delegation, president; George Workmiller, the Bronx; Poughkeepsie and Frank Taylor of Newburgh as secretaries. All these officers were unanimously approved by the conference.

When the afternoon session had finished the fellows adjourned to the Y. M. C. A. for supper. A bountiful spread was welcomed by the hungry bunch. Members of the Hi-Y Auxiliary served. Time and again the gymnasium was filled with the cheers of the several schools, the noise ending when all joined in a cheer for the waitresses, the conference and then the visiting delegates for "Host Kingston."

At 7:30 the evening session was called at the church. After the opening hymns and readings, the Rev. Mr. Thomas again addressed the boys. He spoke of what we have to give to the world. Many men feel that they have something worth while to give to others, something which would please and benefit others. Those who really have something worth while should pass it on. It is not conceit to do such missionary work. What the speaker warned against in his afternoon address was missionary work with the idea that the missionaries were better than the ones to be converted. There are chances in other parts of the world for the United States to do great work for we have something to give to the people, things which they do not enjoy. The first thing is good sportsmanship. Here in the United States, in our athletic games of the youth and our business games of the old, there is prevalent that spirit. It is making the people and districts of the country work together in harmony and accomplish more than if we were jealous of each other. The jealousy and superstition of the old world is the basis of all their quarrels and wars. If there could be instilled in the minds of Europeans and all the rest of the leading nations the spirit of the sportsmanship that is now growing in this country, the problem of future controversies and wars would be settled. The second thing that the people of this country have to give to the rest of the world is a broad sense of vision. Most people of the European countries see an act only as it is at present, the immediate result only is visible; the American, though his broader vision, sees not only the benefit of an act, but its effect some years hence, not only upon his own life, but upon the life of others. There is a long distance between an act and the ultimate result, involving not only the happiness and well-being of the person himself, but the happiness and welfare of many others whom the act would indirectly affect. When all the world gets to see things in this light they will not be so quick to jump to arms. We have the opportunity to give the world something which would be a benefit to them and the giving a credit to us. This leaves a challenge to be accepted or declined.

E. Gerry Tracy, of the New York Y. M. C. A. gave an illustrated lecture on one of the countries offering such a challenge. South America, "The Land of Promise," was the place discussed. Before showing the slides on the southern continent, Mr. Tracy showed the photographs of four men whom he had known personally, men who were interested in the welfare of others and strove for an education in order to better serve others. The pictures of our two continents carried through the story, showing the many possibilities for successful agriculture, mining and other commercial work. Unlimited fields await the engineer and trader who go there. Modern methods have already begun to make that continent an up-to-date country, and many men have already found their fortunes in its vast resources. In addition to the material opportunities, there is an unlimited amount of work to be accomplished by the missionaries and educators. The large majority of the natives are illiterate and heathen. Their value is above that of the material wealth that is to be gained from the countries' resources. It requires men who want to serve others to carry out this work, and men who want to serve others to back up the missionaries in their work.

After Mr. Tracy had finished his talk, Mr. Young introduced Mr. Constantin of Constantinople, Turkey, who made another appeal to the boys to help the other fellow all he could. He said that it is not alone South America that needs our help, but all the world. Conditions here are ideal, conditions in Turkey, Greece and other countries of the Near East are very poor. People barely scrape a living, and education is almost unknown. It will require men who have taken advantage of our opportunities and who have determined to devote themselves to a life of service to help such people. Dr. Constantin said that the boys of his country are the salt of the earth. Salt loses its savor there is nothing with which to season; if we fail to accomplish the work that needs our help, the result will be disastrous or those who need our attention. The speaker, well informed of the needs of his own country, pleaded that the members of the conference do all they can for the Near East and countries in like conditions.

Following Mr. Constantin's talk, the session was adjourned until this morning at nine o'clock. All the delegates did not arrive for Friday's sessions, but there were over one hundred fifty present.

USHERS' CLUB SCORED BIG HIT IN A MINSTREL SHOW.

One of Best Amateur Entertainments Staged Friday Night.

The Ushers' Club of the Roundout Presbyterian Church scored a big hit Friday evening when its members produced a minstrel show before a crowded house in the chapel. Long before the curtain rolled to one side every seat in the auditorium of the chapel was occupied, and everyone appeared to enjoy the minstrels, the first held in several years by the young men of the church.

The music was in charge of Dr. C. H. Bishop, who had drilled both soloists and chorus. A rather remarkable feature of the entire first part of the show was the fact that it was the first time the soloists had ever sung in public and they acquitted themselves with credit. The soloists were Allan Powley, Clifford Finley, Kenneth Stalter, William Metcalf, William Sicker, Fred Mocker and Fred L. Van Deusen.

The members of the chorus were Kenneth Stalter, Harold Metcalf, William Sicker, Harvey Miller, Walter Schussler, Carl Sanders, Alfred Finley and Joseph Sicker.

Fred L. Van Deusen was intercomedian and under his direction the first part passed off with vim and snap. The endmen, all of whom were good, were Allan Powley, Fred Meeker, Clifford Finley and William Metcalf. Their jokes were really funny, and kept the audience in a roar.

The efficient accompanist for soloists and chorus was Miss Ira Finley.

The second part was turned over to the ladies, pupils of Miss Virginia Los Kamp, choir director of the church, and the program was opened by Miss Elizabeth Bishop who pleasingly rendered two selections. Exceptionally good was the trio of old southern songs rendered by the Misses Greta Linkletter and Mildred Messinger and Mrs. Harold Rich. A group of songs was delightfully sung by Miss Los Kamp, and the program was brought to a close with a duet by Mrs. Rich and Miss Messinger.

Miss Los Kamp was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Harry G. Smith, while the other soloists were accompanied by Miss Beulah A. Babcock.

All in all the Ushers' Club gave an evening's entertainment that reflected great credit and was one of the best amateur minstrel shows seen in Kingston in some time.

At the close of the performance ice cream was served. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used in furnishing calendars for the church Sunday.

Man's Work of Destruction.

The last passenger pigeon, pathetic remnant of a species that numbered billions within the lifetime of men not yet past middle age, has been dead these ten years. The buffalo survives only in zoological gardens and parks; the elk holds his dwindling racial remnant by the aid of a few friends; many other faunal families are extinct or nearly so.—Theodore M. Knapp.

HORDAN SCHOOL ELEVEN GIVES NEWBURGH SURPRISE

Holds Valley Champs to 14-14 Tie Score.

The Raymond Riordan School eleven battled Newburgh Academy, 1922 champions of the Hudson valley, to a 14-14 tie at Newburgh on Tuesday.

The late organized St. Mary's Thanksgiving Day afternoon in one of the best games of football which the Newburgh team has ever played. The Raymond Riordan team scored in the early part of the first quarter and from then on gave Newburgh one of the hardest tussles they have experienced so far this year. The Riordan team not only tied the Newburgh team but they did something more and that is they kept a 150 pounder, cut Coffey over the right eye with a wicked left hook and Coffey bled freely. For the rest of the bout, Herman played for the damaged optic and kept the blood running.

Herman seemed to have an edge on Coffey. He was the better at inighting, but the judges probably ruled against him because of his foul fighting. He heeled Coffey every time the pair came out of a clinch and was warned several times by the referee.

Coffey made a great comeback in the tenth and twelfth rounds. In these sessions, he used his right to advantage.

COFFEY IS JUDGES' CHOICE

Over Johnny Herman in Twelve Round Bloody Battle at Schenectady Armory Friday Night—Local Hero Is Strong at Finish.

Vince Coffey, local welterweight, was awarded the judges' decision over Johnny Herman of New York in a vicious twelve round bout, the feature of the show, at the Schenectady state armory last night. The pair fought like bulldogs. It was one of the roughest battles seen in a ring in the Capitol District in years.

Early in the third round, Herman, a 150 pounder, cut Coffey over the right eye with a wicked left hook and Coffey bled freely. For the rest of the bout, Herman played for the damaged optic and kept the blood running.

Herman seemed to have an edge on Coffey. He was the better at inighting, but the judges probably ruled against him because of his foul fighting. He heeled Coffey every time the pair came out of a clinch and was warned several times by the referee.

Coffey made a great comeback in the tenth and twelfth rounds. In these sessions, he used his right to advantage.

Road Twenty Centuries Old.
England's oldest road, which must have been made at least 2,000 years ago, runs between Winchester and Canterbury.
